

Last Day Of School

(star, down dog, up dog, walk, dance, table, cat, cow, happy baby, rock & roll, skip, hug, laugh, tree, eagle, breathe)

I woke up this morning full of ananda; I stretched my arms and legs out like a star. It's the last day of school, yeehaw! My dog, Davey, was staring at me begging for a walk. He had just woken, so he stretched himself into down dog, then up dog, then back to down dog. I got dressed, took my dog for a nice walk and did a little dance of joy as I daydreamed about the fun summer days ahead of me.

When we got back to the house, I walked to the kitchen; on the table was a delicious healthy breakfast spread (talk about healthy breakfast foods). My cat, Peter, who looks like a small cow because of his black and white markings, weaved in and out of my legs, back and forth, back and forth.

After breakfast, I grabbed my reading workbook and turned the pages to make sure I completed all of it. It was all complete and nice and neat. I am one happy baby today! I left my house and walked towards the corner to meet my friend Koko, I could see her from a distance, she had her headphones on; listening to rock and roll no doubt. When I approached her she played the music out loud. We both did a little dance of joy and then skipped all the way to school.

At noon the bell rang. Koko and I met at the front door. We were so excited we hugged each other and giggled and laughed as we walked home. We stopped half way and stood under a tree for some shade, we looked up and saw a beautiful eagle. We decided to lie down under the tree and take in the beauty of our surroundings. We took a few deep breaths and exhaled a sigh of relief.